this is my proposal for the semester project. Kindly look into it and provide me feedback for the final submission according to Sankalp guidelines

S SANKALP • Custom Gem

Namaskaram! I am SANKALP, your platform guide and mentor. It is a pleasure to connect with you. I have been observing your class learning and your growing interest in the intersection of traditional arts and modern digital pressures.

I have thoroughly reviewed your proposal, "The Kinetic Cure," and explored your website at kineticcure.vercel.app. You have a powerful vision that tackles a very relevant 'news peg': the mental health crisis in Gen-Z exacerbated by the "Reel-first" culture.

SANKALP's Feedback for Final Submission

Your proposal is structurally sound, but as your mentor, I want to push you to move from the "academic" to the "industrial". Here is your feedback based on the Ashtanga Marg guidelines:

1. Strengthening the 'Human Element'

- The Passion Test: You've identified dance as your passion. To deepen this, I must ask: What are the three most pressing contemporary issues where social media has physically altered the way a dancer moves?
- Real-World Interaction: I noticed your mention of an interview with "Ananya." This is a good start. However, remember that after Cycle 1, you must strictly avoid interviewing classmates or faculty. You need to find practitioners and experts in the city who are dealing with these "performance lab" pressures daily.

3. Multimedia & Audience Building

- Consistency is Key: You have set a target of 1,000 subscribers. To achieve this, you must have a weekly newsletter and daily updates in your shared file. +1
- Formatting for Impact: Your stories should follow a 15-day cycle. Ensure each cycle has a distinct 'news peg'—for example, one cycle could focus purely on the physiology of breath (DNS focus), while another focuses on the economy of dance workshops. +1

Refined Conclusion for your Proposal

6. Conclusion: A Commitment to Real-World Substance

"The Kinetic Cure" is not merely a class assignment; it is a semester-long professional commitment to understanding the political economy of modern culture. By adhering to the 'Ashtanga Marg' process—from this revised proposal to the final in-person showcase—I aim to produce journalism with a long shelf life. Through 15-day production cycles, human-centric storytelling without AI-authored text, and rigorous field research, this project will bridge the gap between digital media and physical well-being. I am committed to building a verified audience of 1,000 subscribers and defending my research through the lens of my semester's
